Ato Z OF CIVIC VOICE

Civic Voice is the national body representing the civic movement in England. The movement is made up of civic societies, large and small, up and down the country. And those civic societies are full of extraordinary people doing amazing things for their area.

Civic societies are the enthusiastic cheerleaders for their communities – people who care about where they live – and who aren't afraid to step up and speak out to help create places we can all be proud of and be proud to live in.

This network of hundreds of civic societies are at the forefront of the issues that count – having conversations and getting their voice heard on planning matters, new development and the importance of local heritage. They talk to local councils, owners and developers and feed their practical views and grassroots experience into national debate.

Civic Voice helps to pull together the threads of that conversation into a united voice, providing a platform in Parliament via our All Party Parliamentary Group; a regular source of opinion and information via our weekly newsletter 'civic update' and networking opportunities via our regular membership events.

This booklet sets out the range of activities and opportunities which are available to members of Civic Voice.

Join Civic Voice and you are joining a movement of people who say 'we care about where we live.'

Do you want to join the conversation? Join Civic Voice.
